

Adrienne Selsor, CFRE Founder & President

Adrienne Selsor has been a corporate funder, a nonprofit fundraiser, a consultant, a donor, a volunteer and a board member. She understands the beauty and complexities of each role and is passionate about helping others navigate community engagement.

Time, Talent & Treasure was launched to help individuals, companies and nonprofits to get the coaching and training support they need to be successful.

Adrienne passionately believes that the people who work in or on behalf of the community are at the core of its success, and that coaching and training to help those people is the best way to strengthen the capacity of our community.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Adrienne has over twenty years of experience in the philanthropy sector in central Ohio; serving as the chief fundraising officer at YWCA Columbus and managing Battelle's charitable giving endeavors prior to becoming a consultant.

In her role as Corporate Philanthropy Manager at Battelle, she invested the company's charitable resources into the community and also served on the Women's Employee Resource Group and the Diversity Leadership Council, chairing its Recruitment, Retention and Communications Committee. At YWCA Columbus, she successfully led a $25 million comprehensive campaign in addition to exceeding fundraising goals annually.

Adrienne has participated on dozens of nonprofit community event steering committees and has a Certificate in Corporate Community Involvement from the Center for Corporate Citizenship at Boston College. She is a Certified Fund Raising Executive via CFRE International.

Adrienne's history of board service includes the Executive Committee and Governing Board of Leadership Columbus, the Governing Board of YWCA Columbus, the Governing Board of the Columbus Metropolitan Club, and the Board of the Central Ohio Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals, chairing its Mentoring Program.
